Dear Mr. Weisberg:

Thank you for your letter of 29 August. I would be happy to look at your paper, or your manuscript.

The reason that I had not accepted it is simply a matter of time. I am so deeply committed in reviewing and reading so many books, and writing myself, that I simply did not have time to go into the subject that you are working so hard on. Further, whatever conclusions you arrive at must be your own and I do not feel qualified to reinforce or detract from them in any way; hence, I am dubious about my own judgment about your manuscript. Of course, I would be interested in it and would appreciate having an opportunity to look at it.

Sincerely,

James M. Gavin
